maginon ip security camera software download. maginon ip camera software download. See the License Agreement. See the Privacy Policy. Developers and Publishers. Developers, publishers, and resellers ("you") may upload and install the App on any iOS-powered device. To install the App on any iOS-powered device for usage in the field, you must also download our optional license and registration software, which enables you to make purchases or obtain premium content from us, use the App as a real-time camera or view playback of recordings or archives without rebooting your device. If you install the App on an iOS device that you use in the field, you may need to purchase an up-front license for the App to run. You may not pay for the license on your account. To purchase a license, you must turn on the Check for License Agreement. If the Check for License Agreement check box does not appear in your iOS Home screen after installing the App, open the App and tap on the Edit button. Tap on the Generate New License check box. You may find it helpful to select the Generate License via Android check box. The App will check your license agreement and determine if you have a valid license on file. If you do not have a valid license and you are installing on a new device for the first time, you may be prompted to purchase a license. Although you may upload the App to any iOS device, it will only work on that device. See the hardware requirements. You may use the App to remotely monitor and control your Maginon IPC Camera, but the App is primarily designed for mobile or mobile device use and therefore cannot be used in conjunction with a wall-mounted version. See requirements. You may purchase license renewals and other content for the App, as described in the License Agreement, including updates, upgrades, and premium content. After you purchase the license, the amount of the per-device license fee for the App is downloaded to a device's Device ID or Serial number. Your App only accesses the Device ID or Serial number. You must have in place the necessary hardware or software and Internet access on the device that you wish to be a license agent. If your device is a license agent, your license fee can be attributed to any device installed with the App. You must be able to remotely monitor and control your camera with a standard network device, such as a web browser. If you do not have access to a standard network 1cb139a0ed
