G App Launcher for Firefox is a small yet very handy extension that promises to improve your browsing experience by providing you with a swift way to access a great range of Android apps and games directly from your browser's toolbar. By default, the extension features quick access to Android Market, Play Store, as well as your browser's bookmarks. However, the extension boasts an impressive list of features that allow you to easily search and launch a great list of Android applications. G App Launcher for Firefox provides users with the option of using its feature to search for applications based on their name or category. If you click on the + button, the extension will provide you with a list of available Android apps in the form of a grid, from which you can simply drag and drop them directly onto your browser's toolbar. Once the app is installed, users are offered with the option to sync it with their Google account, as well as give it a permanent desktop shortcut. They are also given the option of easily pinning the shortcuts to the web browser's toolbar. Not only can users launch their favorite Android apps from G App Launcher for Firefox, but they can also launch a whole range of good games using this extension's handy feature. In addition, the extension can also add widgets and browser's bookmarks from other sites into its nice and neat grid. Advanced customization options The extension provides users with a Settings section where they can configure its behavior in many different ways. They are provided with the ability to tweak the extension's appearance by choosing between a dark or light theme, to tweak its search behavior. The extension also provides users with the option of enabling or disabling alerts about unread emails and bookmarks in their Google account. Users are also given the option of using the extension to download Apps and Games, or to manually sync them to their Android device. G App Launcher for Firefox allows users to choose between saving new bookmarks directly to the browser's toolbar, or using it to launch the selected apps. Although, it's worth pointing out that G App Launcher for Firefox is not only a handy way to launch your favorite apps and games, but it's also a great place to quickly find good-looking widgets and web browser's bookmarks. To conclude, G App Launcher for Firefox provides you with a neat way of accessing a whole range of Android apps and games directly from the browser's toolbar. From What's New in the?

Do you need a quick and easy way to launch Google apps without having to leave the browser? App Launcher for Firefox is a handy extension for that. It's basically a GUI for Google Chrome Apps, so all the useful Google apps are ready to use right from your browser's toolbar. The extension adds a button to your toolbar. Click on it and you will be taken to the App Launcher area in your browser's settings. You'll see an overview of all your installed apps, and you can launch any of them from the toolbar, just by clicking on their name. As a bonus, the extension allows you to quickly launch Google Docs from the toolbar, as well. You can even drag and drop files and folders into the right window. The App Launcher works just like Chrome apps, but it's packed in a web browser. It can work in all modern browsers (FF, Chrome, Opera, Safari) and it can be a bit tricky to launch Chrome apps in your Firefox, because they can only be launched from the Chrome Web Store.
