There are rooms with bars and traps. That is, the enemy will fall into the traps set for them. If you get arrested by the police, you will be tested with a new "Memory Test." If you are unsuccessful, your funds are blocked and you must come back the next day. You will lose all of your funds if you fail the memory test. A mysterious darkness spreads across Venice. Be warned: the city has fallen to the Lord of Shadows, an evil force born of darkness that uses its unholy powers to corrupt and seduce the innocent. Eros, a banished demon, has returned to Venice in search of his three stolen hearts. He has left a trail of destruction in his wake. Now you must piece together the remains of a vicious curse, uncover Eros's murderous plans, and unravel a grand conspiracy before the Lord of Shadows is unleashed on all of Venice's blood. Enter the world of the lawless Wild West, where gun battles are common place, and the local hangman doesn't take prisoners. To solve the mystery of the rustlers who murdered a sheriff and stolen his money and a vicious gang of outlaws who are taking over the region, you must prove yourself as the ruthless killer of your dreams. The highly anticipated third installment of the cult-classic series. The Town of Lost Memories begins when a mysterious boy named Kael defeats a powerful enemy and buries himself in the ground. The ground begins to spin and create a new world. People begin to transform into creatures known as "Zoopas," animals which grow to enormous sizes. As the monsters run rampant across the land, the boy Kael is visited by a girl, Nino, and her two friends, and they embark on a quest to search for Kael, to figure out what happened to him, and to destroy the world that is spinning around them. The adventure begins: You arrive at the town of Lost Memories. A mysterious boy called Kael arrives at the town. As you enter the town, you will notice that it seems to be a peaceful town. "Once a year, the townsfolk go on holiday," a guard informs you. It is snowing lightly and the town is bustling with activity. Suddenly, a large group of monsters burst into the town from a hole in the ground. "This is war! This is war!" a guard shouts. The monsters keep attacking the town. "Don't let them get through! Use your weapons!" a guard

Boy:Re: Canon's premium lenses...I know there's the 50 1.2 with the widest field of view, and the 85 1.2, the 100f 2.0, the 70-200f 4.0 and the 16-35 2.8 But let's look at some serious lenses, ones which will be used for most of the time instead of just kicks in random situations. For comparison: Canon's 28-300, 24-105 and 70-200. These are the ones by far the easiest to use. Just pop it in and zoom. Just quick googling yields a Panasonic 24-70 f2.8 3.5-5.6. Granted, look at the IQ, but a damned good glass; fair IQ and size (compared to that Canon 28-300) make it worth the small bit of money you'd pay for it. Another thing worth considering is the modern, small, and light lenses more expensive and than the ones built on the same old (for that time) tech, but which are still around and rather cheap... Flatron:DSLR, Pentax. Love the 50-135 VR, virtually no competition from Pentax. Yeah, a couple of years before, but my 16-35 f2.8 is one of my greatest loves. Pentax has come so far with their AF that when I did finally get a Pentax body (D-S5 with an M mount adapter) it was still faster, for both auto and manual, than my nikon d5100 with the AF-S 18-55 kit. Alonso:If you want a new camera just get one! There's a reason why Canon, Sony, Fuji, etc are the most expensive cameras on the planet, they are known to last and they last well. I'd bet you a pound or two that Fuji's reputation as a reliable camera has helped keep the prices for that camera down to a minimum. People just expect them to last. I kind of remember I tried to buy a digital SLR once and ended up with one of those cheapy ones that nobody used. My tastes are a bit beyond the mainstream it seems. Fiance is a sports photographer and a car guy. He told me a few weeks ago when the new Field camera came out in the hipster editions, he wanted one... I agree with you about the cost,

Fadia is a young man from Naria village, a small village about 40 kilometers to the north west of Luxa, the ancient capital city of Naria. During the night, when most of the people in Naria slept, a large cloud appeared over the village. The cloud was so big that Fadia could see people and animals in the clouds, such as birds and monkeys. When morning came, the cloud had vanished. The village was shaken by an earthquake when the cloud appeared, but none of the houses were damaged. As a reward for his bravery, the people of Naria gave Fadia a sacred sword. Fadia carried the sword for three days and nights until he reached Luxa. As he entered Luxa, a great storm broke out in the sky. It was the most powerful storm that Fadia had seen in his life. Lightning and thunder roared in the sky and torrential rains were falling. Fadia ran to the center of Luxa, where the people of Luxa started to perform an ancient ceremony. After this ceremony, Fadia entered the great Temple of Naria and climbed the steps in the heart of the temple. From the top of the temple he could see the entire area of Naria. He then saw a cloud hovering in the sky over Naria and there was a massive amount of rays of light coming out of the cloud. Then, a flash of light went out in the middle of the storm. After a while, Fadia saw a great light in the sky. The light went out and the cloud above the village spread the rays of light into the entire village. The people of Naria saw a massive amount of light in the sky. Everyone was astonished. Everyone then witnessed an event that changed Naria forever. Over the next 12 hours, all the people of Naria ran into their houses, they were so scared. All the adults were inside the houses, locking the doors and windows. Only the children and the old people were outside, running through the streets of Naria. At first, the people were so happy and excited. But then the nature of children changed. The children were so sad and started to cry and scream, until the adults could not control them. Most of the children wanted to stay outside, but their elders would not let them. The parents would just watch the children cry, as they were coming down with a serious illness. As if their bodies had the knowledge that they were about to die they started to
