HOUSTON – A Houston family is reeling from what they consider an act of terrorism after their home was shot several times in what police describe as a hate crime. Sylvia Creel is at her daughter's home, where she and her daughter are staying while her house is being repaired. The 68-year-old is so upset, she says her house has been attacked. "This is not your normal hate crime," Creel said. Creel says she used to own a home that was shot in the same alley near Danziger and Westheimer.

She said she helped her neighbors out during Hurricane Harvey.
