A polyclonal antibody against a cell wall glycoprotein of Candida albicans was obtained using a differential antigen fraction. The antigen preparation was isolated from purified hyphal membrane fragments containing a cell wall glycoprotein with a molecular mass of 45 kDa. The antiserum revealed the presence of a 45 kDa protein in hyphal membrane preparations, which was localized to the exterior. The 45 kDa protein was bound by the antiserum on immunoblot and to immunofluorescence. In liquid culture the antigen was present in the insoluble portion of the cell wall. Christianity in Quebec The Christian religion is the majority religion in Quebec. According to data collected by the 2013 Canadian census, about 60% of Quebecers identify themselves as Christian. About 65% of Quebec residents belonging to another religion, about 30% belong to no religion. About 25% of Quebecers identify as Christian without a denomination, including agnostics, atheists and others. History Prior to the invasion of the French in 1534, France was the largest Christian population in Quebec. The large majority of the population were Catholic until the British Conquest in 1760. Protestants from England and Scotland gradually converted the majority of the population by the mid 19th century. By the early 20th century Quebec had become predominantly Roman Catholic, due
