0..The Basic Mode (This is the first of a 3 part series on Acid.) The most basic version of Acid is the so called basic mode. This mode is used for simple frequency-based editing (e.g. adding more percussive sounds, overdubbing, more or less vocallike sounds on top of each other) and is roughly equivalent to many drum machines. In basic mode you'll find a spectrum analyser as well as an edit pad. Hold down the cross on the edit pad to switch to shift mode In basic mode you can create sounds, edit sounds and add effects with the keyboard. All the sounds you create can be arranged in a track by clicking on the track edit icon.
Once you've created a track, you can move the sounds around the track with the track bar, creating a sound-pool in the middle. Keyboard controls: The F key toggles between filters and effects The C key toggles the cross-fader The 1 to 9 buttons give you access to the filters in the filters menu Holding down the modifier keys, such as Shift, allow you to change the sound in a number of different ways. Examples include changing the pitch, altering the speed and even invert the sound. The Shift key is used to mute the track.
Holding down Shift + Ctrl will also invert the sound.
The Ctrl key opens the FX menu, where you can set the effect for each track. The arrow keys are used to scroll through the presets. Creating a sound Press and hold the 1 key to enable the note editor. Use the keyboard to create a new sound. When you've created a sound, drag it to the track. Editing the track Hold down the SHIFT key to activate an edit icon in the track Drag
